The river at Vicksburg continued on the rice.

We cannot don't that there are many hundreds in our city and in its immediate neighborhood who intend visiti g the Cave a ring the summer; and no better time can be chosen than the present. The mere toought of the Cave's exhibitating air and its clear springs and streams is almost sufficient to console us for our sufferings or to make as forget them when the thermometer is at 95. One little circumstance may give the reader some idea of the birating character of the sir of the Cava. All the provisive that the publisher of the New York Weekly is out with another novelty. A new story by James A. Mailland, author of "The Watchman," "The Old Doctor," "Sartanos," "The Lawyer's Story," "Old Honesty," etc., commences this week in that popular paper. Mr. Mailland's new story is to appear under the title of "Rosa Millon, or the Heimit of the Sea-Shore," and will no doubt add to the already hundsome circulation of the Weekly. With such a succession of capital stories, by the best writers in the country, it is not surprising that this paper has at once attained a position in the front rank of the popular publications of the day.
